

Broadband over Power Line schemes should be required to PROVE beyond the shadow of a doubt, in controlled tests designed not to interfere with ongoing communications on any frequency, that they will NOT interfere with any current communications systems including Amateur Radio. Until such proof is achieved, BPL should not be seriously considered for implementation anywhere.